Welcome to the world of Voice over IP (VoIP)

For some time now we have had the ability to use applications to chat online with friends and colleagues using MSN, Messenger, AOL AIM.

With the world turning to broadband, we can now use these applications to talk to each other and have video calls.

However, you may or may not be aware of Skype.

Skype have focused on perfecting high quality voice calling over broadband connections enabling people to talk for free and has the ability to conference call.

However Skype has now evolved and they have just released a Beta test 2.0 version that also has video so you can see the person you are talking to.

If you are interested in using Skype to save call costs or communicate with friends and family, remote offices and workers, people abroad then we can provide or advise on suitable Web Camera's and compatible Skype phones.
